Obituary.

No words, methinks, can more fittingly express the condition of our dear sister, Eva J. Smith, than that she is at rest, after a period of ten years of great suffering, patiently, hopefully, submissively borne.

Yesterday morning, July 11, at 8:20 o'clock, after a night of intense pain, the beautiful spirit, freeing itself from the tired, worn-out house of clay, winged its flight to the God who gave it, there to join that innumerable company of whom the Revelator says, "These are they, which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

She was the daughter of George and Lydia Smith and was born unto them July 20, 1883.

For nearly twenty-seven years she has well filled her place in the home, as a dutiful daughter, and a kind, cheering sister; and why one so young and helpful, one whose geniality of disposition made her a favorite among the young, the middle aged and the old should so soon be taken from off the stage of action, we know not now, we cannot understand, but we shall know by and by, when the mists shall all be cleared away.

Heeding the admonition, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," during a meeting conducted by Rev. Geo. Crites at Fairview, in October, 1897, she made the good confession and consecrated her life to the service of her Lord and Master. She was an earnest, loyal member of the "Invincibles", the class of young ladies in the Fairview Bible School. Failing health, however, prevented her attendance for months; but even though she was absent in person, she was ever present in the hearts and affections of her classmates, whose heart strings are torn and bleeding, and whose heads are bowed in sorrow today, at the sad realization that Eva will go in and out among them no more.

But a few weeks ago, the last time she was here, she expressed her desire for renewed health and strength, that she might attend the Bible School every Lord's day. While not permitted to experience this desired joy, a far better one was awaiting her, just a few steps ahead. Today she is enrolled in that great school above wherein perfect health without a sigh or tear, without pain or discomfort, amid "joys ineffable", she may sit at the feet of the Great Teacher, and learn of Him. With all the redeemed ones of earth, she is caroling forth heavenly anthems, filled with perfect harmony, which even we of earth may hear, if we will but stop to listen.

At the best, how sad are these separations to those who are left! How they do shroud the home in gloom and darkness? How long and lonely the days and nights appear? In her home going, she leaves a kind, a loving mother, who is fast hastening toward the end of time, saddened, sorrowful and bereft. She leaves seven brothers and four sisters, with whom she has pleasantly associated during these years, but who need no longer wait for her coming, her smiles nor her sunshine.

She has gone to that "Land beautiful" to meet father and sister, who were awaiting her and from her mansion home above, she is "looking this way" and is beckoning to each of those dear ones "to come" where there will be no more "good-byes." How sweet it will be in that beautiful land.

So free from all sorrow and pain; With songs on our lips and harps in our hands.

To meet one another again.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Murch at the Fairview Christian Church Tuesday at 2 o'clock, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Stroup cemetery, to await the Resurrection morn.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire through the columns of this paper to express our thanks to our neighbors and friends, who so kindly assisted us in the sickness and death of our beloved daughter and sister. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.

MRS. LYDIA SMITH AND FAMILY.

A Cold

Is not necessarily serious, provided it is taken care of. It is frequently the starting point of many dangerous diseases. When it comes use Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. Look for the bell on the bottle.

Suez Canal has proved to be one of the most profitable commercial undertakings in the history of the world and the Manchester Ship Canal is now accomplishing all and more than was promised at first.

Croup

People with children should keep a bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey on hand at all times. Croup is worse at night when it is sometimes hard to get a physician. Look for the bell on the bottle.

The largest butterfly known is found in New Guinea. The male measures eight inches across the wings and the female not less than eleven inches.
